Insurance Coverage Disputes and Litigation

Because real world loss situations don't always fall neatly within the provisions contained in an insurance policy, insurance disputes frequently arise regarding the validity of an insurance claim, the amount of coverage owed, or the relationship of the parties under an insurance contract.

Marcus & Myers attorneys have handled hundreds of insurance policy disputes pre-suit, post-suit, and in federal and state courts, including: automotive; commercial general liability (CGL); directors and officers; disability; errors and omissions; health; homeowners; life; malpractice; motorcycles and trucks; professional liability; and property and casualty.

The partners of Marcus & Myers are respected insurance industry participants who speak nationwide at conferences and seminars.

We understand the complex contracts that govern the determination of insurance coverage, including premiums, limitations, exclusions (such as an intentional act) and claims for the insurer or the insured.

We are familiar with umbrella and/or excess insurance policies, and the impact of misrepresentations (such as on the sale of property).

Because every insurance coverage dispute is unique, we have developed the ability to carefully analyze and interpret the policy provisions. We apply the relevant facts of a case to the insurance policy terms according to established precedent.

Insurance dispute legal services include:

- Assess coverage in overlapping policies
- Evaluate concurrent policy coverage
- File declaratory judgment actions
- Prepare reservation of rights letters
- Work with courts on determinations on coverage concerns
- Write coverage opinion letters

Marcus & Myers attorneys are approved by the State of Florida to offer insurance-related continuing education courses.
